"The Lonely Things: The Love Songs of Rod McKuen" is a wonderful classic album of Rod McKuen's poetry set to inspired music. I listened to this - and a companion album of Glenn Yarbrough/Rod McKuen: "Each of Us Alone" - for hours in the '70's whilst in college on a record, then on cassette tape. It is a joy to hear these wonderful songs again! We shall not see their like again in this current ...

True Love is founded in rocks of Remembrance In stones of Forbearance and mortar of pain. The workman lays wearily granite on granite, And bleeds for his castle, 'mid sunshine and rain. Love is not velvet, not all of it velvet, Not all of it banners, not gold-leaf alone. 'Tis stern as the ages and old as Religion. With Patience its watchword and Law for its throne. Vachel Lindsay. A Guy in Love gives Mitchell the opportunity to sing romantic moon-June-spoon songs, including a number of Tin Pan Alley classics, over the sweet and gentle orchestrations of Glenn Osser. There is a subtle theme to the album with its multiple songs about heaven, the moon, and the rain, but less apparent to those who aren't Bing Crosby fans is the fact that the album is also an homage to Crosby .

Not an album but a brief collection of early singles and cuts for One Little Indian, Lovesighs is a wonderful introduction to the group as a whole, not to mention a near-perfect official start for the band in and of itself. The blend of Tim Bowness' breathy, passionate singing, Steve Wilson's ear for funk loops and dance beats, and Coleman's elegant violin playing immediately set the band ...
