• Self-confidence: knowing your self-worth and capabilities. Goleman (1996, 1998) argues that IQ accounts for only about 20 per cent of a person's success in life. He proposes that the rest can be accounted for by the term "emotional intelligence" which includes self-awareness. Before I can make changes in myself, I need to know what there to work on. Self-awareness is all about ...

The Self-Change Model is less concerned – certainly less than other similar models – with the social influences on behaviour, but focuses primarily on decision-making behavioural patterns. It has been found effective in such areas as nicotine addiction, exercise, dieting, organisational change, and stress management, amongst many others. The model's major contribution is the recognition ...
