The Australian military Land-Rover fleet was "freshened up" with an estimated 2300 new Series 3 vehicles in the period April 1977 to March 1981. The supply contract was signed in mid-1976 some five years after the late Series 2A Land-Rovers were purchased. The suitability testing of the contending vehicles was probably carried out during 1975. At this stage the earliest dated Series 3 ¾ ton ...

The Series II Land Rover launched in 1958 was larger, heavier and more complex than the original, and there was an ever-present need for higher powered engines. Also, the Rover petrol engines in use at the time, with the archaic Inlet-Over-Exhaust valve layout and were approaching the age of 20 years in design terms. A new, larger petrol engine specifically developed for the Land Rover was needed.
